INTRODUCING ROBOTICS

Our school is excited to introduce robotics as a new subject, where students will learn to design, build, and program robots to develop problem solving skills, creativity, and critical thinking. Through robotics, students will explore the intersection of science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM) in a hands-on and interactive way, preparing them for future careers in this rapidly growing field.

ROLE OF PERSEVERANCE AND RESILIENCE

Perseverance and resilience play crucial roles in the development and success of students in various aspects of their academic and personal lives. Perseverance involves persisting in the face of challenges and setbacks, such as difficult exams assignments or projects.

Overcoming obstacles through perseverance builds confidence and self-efficacy: the belief in one's ability to succeed. The ability to persevere and bounce back from setbacks is linked to long term success in both academic and professional pursuits.

Resilience help students bounce back from failures or disappointments. It encourages them to analyze what went wrong, learn from mistakes and adapt their approach. This fosters effective problem-solving skills which are valuable both academically and in real-world situations. Students who are resilient are better at setting resilient goals and creating plans to achieve them. They understand that progress may involve setbacks but to remain committed to their objectives is more important.

Educators and parents play crucial roles in fostering perseverance and resilience among students. Encouraging a growth mind set, providing opportunities for autonomy and decision making, and offering support during difficult times, all contribute to the development of these essential skills. Ultimately, cultivating perseverance and resilience prepare students not only for academic success but also for leading a fulfilling and productive lives.

The Kargil War of 1999 was a significant chapter in Indian history, where our armed forces showcased not just their military powers, but also their unwavering resolve to protect the nation. The hostile terrain and the chilling cold were no match for the burning desire in the hearts of our soldiers to reclaim what rightfully belonged to India.
